Work with our designer

A distinctive outdoor setting begins with a plan shaped around the way you live, gather, welcome, and unwind.

YOUR SETTING. YOUR PRIORITIES. YOUR VISION—BROUGHT INTO FOCUS.

THOUGHTFUL GUIDANCE, FROM POSSIBILITY TO PLAN

See the whole space before you commit.

Your designer considers more than appearance. UNDERSTAND YOUR ENVIRONMENT

Evaluate sun, wind, moisture, climate, traffic, architecture, and the way each area needs to perform.

CURATE THE RIGHT DIRECTION

Refine furniture lines, configurations, finishes, fabrics, shade, and color relationships into a cohesive point of view.

VISUALIZE THE RESULT

Receive tailored imagery that helps you understand proportion, placement, palette, and the character of the proposed setting.

MOVE FORWARD WITH CLARITY

Translate the design direction into a coordinated recommendation, with final specifications confirmed through your Cievoro representative.

Begin with a conversation. Leave with a clearer vision.

Silva Faux-Wood Collection

WARM MATERIAL CHARACTER / COMMERCIAL DURABILITY

THE LOOK OF WOOD, COMPOSED FOR OUTDOOR LIFE

Natural warmth, resolved through durable materials.

Silva combines aluminum frame construction with slatted faux-wood surfaces made from recycled-plastic material. The result brings the familiar rhythm and warmth of wood to dining, bar-height, side-table, and service pieces without relying on natural teak. A coordinated palette of published wood and frame finishes allows each setting to feel tailored to its architecture and level of use.

ONE MATERIAL DIRECTION, MULTIPLE WAYS TO GATHER

Build continuity without making every zone identical.

Dining chairs, bar-height seating, tables, and service pieces can share one wood-and-frame palette while responding to different activities. Strata Collection

ONE PROFILE / MULTIPLE MATERIAL EXPRESSIONS

A CONSISTENT ARCHITECTURAL LANGUAGE, TAILORED BY MATERIAL

Distinct surfaces. One considered silhouette.

Strata begins with a substantial powder-coated aluminum frame and a gently curved arm profile, then adapts that structure through aluminum, sling, faux-wood, and teak seating surfaces. This mixed-material approach allows dining, lounging, and table settings to respond to climate, use, and architectural character while maintaining a unified visual identity across the project.

COLOR THAT BECOMES PART OF THE STRUCTURE

The frame finish shapes the entire composition.

Cievaro powder-coated aluminum frames are available in a broad palette of textured, specialty, and standard solid finishes. Selection begins with the architecture, surrounding materials, climate, furniture construction, and desired level of contrast. Our design team then coordinates frame color with sling, strap, cushion, tabletop, faux-wood, weave, and umbrella materials to create a cohesive specification.

COMFORT, SUPPORT, AND COLOR IN ONE CONTINUOUS SURFACE

The sling defines how the furniture feels and reads.

Sling seating uses a tensioned outdoor fabric surface to support the body without a separate cushion. The current Cievaro program includes both standard and optional selections ranging from quiet solids and dimensional weaves to stripes, botanical motifs, and more expressive patterns. Our design team coordinates the sling with the frame finish, setting, climate, surrounding materials, and expected use before the final specification is confirmed.
